Wilson is president of Lompoc Resource Conservation District and Payne is assistant state soil conservationist. The tour was designed to give Lagomarsino first hand knowledge of the flood control facility in light of efforts to get federal improvement monies.

Lagomarsino tours flood channel

Representative Robert J. Lagomarsino has thrown the weight of his office behind the 10-year-old effort to get congressional okay for the improvement of Miguelito Channel.

Lagomarsino toured the flood protection facility west of Lompoc yesterday in company with Max Wilson, president of Lompoc Resource Conservation District and Bill Payne, assistant state soil conservationist out of Davis, California.

In guarded statements after the tour, Lagomarsino said he would accelerate his efforts on behalf of the improvement project, but made no promises. Local petitions to pry loose federal monies for the project have foundered for a decade on the shoals of congressional and administrative red tape. Lagomarsino's expressions of interest are the first since he was elected to succeed the late Charles M. Teague.

The channel was built in 1951 to carry runoff waters of the southerly foothills, past the City of Lompoc and to the Santa Ynez River. It runs generally from the intersection of O Street and Olive Avenue, westerly to V Street and thence, north to the river. More fundamentally the earthwork channel was designed to protect several thousand acres of west valley agriculture from annual flooding.

An improvement project first advanced 10 years ago by Wilson and his Lompoc district board, calls for the enlargement of the channel and the paving of the sides and bottom. The City of Lompoc has pledged some assistance, as has the state, and the flood control district will provide some monies for partial fencing.

The latter factor has been the subject of major and recurrent campaigns by parents in the southwest portion of Lompoc, because of the hazard the present unfenced channel poses for small children. PTA officials at nearby Miguelito School, have been in the forefront of the effort. Flood Control chief James Stubbs has completed surveys showing part of the improved channel, probably along Olive Avenue could be fenced with present funds.

Costs of the total improvement are uncertain but they would be several times the costs estimated in 1965, when the improvement proposal was first sent to the Congress.

Wilson's effort to reopen the original P.L. 534 funding contract, is a reversal of his position of a couple of years ago when he said he could not in good conscience recommend the project in the face of inflationary costs. Recently, however, he told the Record, he had had a change of heart. He said the project was needed and that it would put men to work.

He said monies for the improvement are already appropriated and all that remains is for congressional committee approval for unfreezing of the funds.

Kissinger delivers Israeli peace pact terms to Sadat

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today brought to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat the Israeli terms for an interim peace pact to avert a new Middle East war. He pronounced himself "reasonably hopeful" of success.

Kissinger told reporters aboard the jet that brought him from Jerusalem and two days of violent anti-Kissinger and antigovernment demonstrations that the proposed agreement presents "an understandable dilemma for Israelis" but is in their best interests.

Hopes for any quick overall Middle East settlement received a severe setback today in Damascus when Syria and Jordan — two of the countries Kissinger will visit on this trip — announced formation of a joint command to coordinate their armies against Israel and called on the Arab world to reject any new Israeli-Egyptian interim agreement.

Upon arriving at his guest residence, the palace of Ras El Tin in this Egyptian summer capital, Kissinger told reporters:

"I am hopeful. I hope I am meeting Sadat in a little while. We will review the state of negotiations and will spare no effort to bring them to a successful conclusion. I am reasonably hopeful at this time."

He and Sadat were meeting at 7 p.m. (9 a.m. PDT) for an evening of talks and private dining.

A senior U.S. official in the Kissinger party told reporters the secretary planned to hear Sadat's terms for the interim peace pact and match them against those he got earlier today in a nearly five hour talk with Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin in Jerusalem.

In each session of the shuttle diplomacy — aimed at blocking what Kissinger believes is the galloping danger of a new Arab-Israeli war — Kissinger acted as the negotiator. Hearing Rabin's terms, he explained what Sadat would counter with. With Sadat, Kissinger explained the Israeli side.

The American showed none of the gloom that overcame him when the March attempt to oversee a new Israel-Egyptian agreement collapsed. The bull-horn taunts of Jerusalem demonstrators

Aboard the plane, he said, "It is an understandable dilemma for Israelis. But once Israelis look at the whole context of events they will see them in perspective."

Kissinger flew by helicopter from Janaklis Airbase to Ras El Tin Palace for talks with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi before his meeting with Sadat. With him on the aircraft were his wife Nancy, Fahmi and Fahmi's wife Araf.

Asked by reporters if violent right-wing demonstrations against his mission Thursday night in Israel caused him concern, Kissinger replied, "You forget, I come from Harvard and I'm used to them."

Syria, Jordan agree to coordinate armies

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Syria and Jordan announced today they had established a joint command to coordinate their armies against Israel and called on the Arab world to reject any compromise settlement worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The two countries issued a joint communique in which they asked all Arab nations to marshal their military machine against and reject partial peace settlements.

They sharply criticized Kissinger's attempt to negotiate a Sinai agreement between Egypt and Israel and said "events have shown there is no alternative except military force and preparedness" in confronting Israel.

The announcement of the Jordanian-Syrian Supreme Command Council, as it will be named, and the sharp criticism of Kissinger's current shuttle mission came at the end of a four-day visit to Syria by King Hussein of Jordan.

Hussein and Syrian President Hafez Assad rejected the notion that the Sinai settlement Kissinger is now trying to seal between Egypt and Israel will help promote peace in the Middle East.

They said only an Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories on their fronts as well as Egypt's could do that. They said only "a militarily strong Arab nation" could guarantee such a withdrawal.

"The two leaders attach special importance to the mobilization of the resources of the Arab nation to mass them in battle against the Zionist enemy," the communique said. It said the Arabs have no choice but to "build up their military power... because events have shown that there is no alternative except military force and preparedness to confront the intransigence and maneuvers of the enemy."

It said Syria and Jordan will accept a peace linked only to "overall withdrawal from occupied territories and the recognition of the national rights of the Palestinian people."

Rejecting a partial peace settlement, it said "every attempt by the Zionist enemy to fragment the position along the borders of confrontation will increase the gravity of the situation."

It said the mission of the Supreme Command Council would be to "work toward normalizing the situation (in the Middle East) before the division created by imperialism."

In what a diplomatic source said was an immediate response to the criticism of a Sinai settlement, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat sent an envoy to Damascus with a letter to Assad. The envoy arrived just after Hussein boarded his jet and returned to Amman.

The communique said the Supreme Command Council will coordinate both political and military moves by Jordan and Syria.

It "will debate the issues of peace or war and issue joint coordinated resolutions and positions toward it. The command will also decide on schemes of coordination and integrity between the armed forces of the two countries," it said.

Observers noted that the wording on this point fell short of the outright declaration of military union that Syria has been seeking in talks with Jordan over the past few months.

Support for fundamental school to be presented

Proponents of a fundamental school will appear before trustees of Lompoc Unified School District next Tuesday to present results of a survey showing support for their proposal.

Marcia Toomey, chairperson for Concerned Parents for Quality Education, said today that a survey conducted through newspaper ads showed parents of at least 230 students interested in an alternative school. She said that another 100 parents with no children presently eligible for the school had indicated they were interested in boosting the fundamental school concept.

Mrs. Toomey said favorable responses had been received from parents in Vandenberg Village, Vandenberg Air Force Base and Mission Hills in addition to Lompoc. Greatest interest was shown by parents with children eligible for grades kindergarten through nine, but that all grades were represented, she said.

In her presentation Tuesday, Mrs. Toomey said she will present the statistics and give a definition of "fundamental school." As announced previously, the organization defines a fundamental school as one that stresses reading, writing and arithmetic and which also stresses patriotism, discipline and homework.

Mrs. Toomey said it was probably too late to establish a fundamental school for the school year beginning next month, but that the attitude of the trustees would be a deciding factor.

She said that results of recent statewide curriculum tests showed a need for an alternative school to the present concepts.

Ford considering ideas for financing new fuels

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford is considering a number of proposals for financing the development of alternative fuels to make the United States independent of foreign oil production,

Leftists dynamite Argentina warship

LA PLATA, Argentina (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas dynamited a warship being outfitted at Argentina's naval shipyard today, causing extensive damage. The Montoneros, a leftist Peronist guerrilla group, took credit for planting explosives in the ship's engine room.

The vessel was in the final stages of preparation at the shipyard.

press secretary Ron Nessen said today. "He's looking at some ideas but he has made no decision," Nessen said.

Nessen confirmed the administration is considering among the proposals the creation of a "quasi" public corporation that would develop other sources of energy to make the United States independent of Middle East and other oil producers.

The New York Times reported today that such a corporation would be backed by a funding of up to $100 billion to finance projects. The Times said it would be financed by the Treasury but not subject to annual congressional review.

Nessen said he attended a briefing on the subject but could not confirm the price tag.

According to the Times report, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and Commerce Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton briefed Ford on the proposal. Ford said he would consider it when he returns to Washington next week, the newspaper said.

New tension reported in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Communists opened fire on a crowd in the northern city of Braganza today, wounding several persons and bringing new tensions in a country seething with rumors of an imminent coup to oust pro-Communist Premier Vasco Gonçalves.

In Lisbon, President Francisco da Costa Gomes met separately with American Ambassador Frank Carlucci and British ambassadors Nigel Trench to discuss Portugal's worsening political crisis and the deluge of rumors about a coup.

Police said the Braganza violence was triggered by a small, homemade bomb that wrecked one room in a communist-owned building. A crowd gathered and police said the Communists opened fire, wounding four or five persons, two critically.

Police said they had to evacuate the Communists from the building and that the Communists were beaten by the crowd as they ran with police for protection to a local military base. The crowd then ransacked the building and turned its contents into a street bonfire.

Troops were called in to control the mob, but returned to their base when the crowd objected, police said.

The clash broke a two-day lull in the anti-Communist violence that has swept Portugal in the past five weeks. Six persons have been killed and more than 330 injured in the clashes.

Before meeting the two envoys, Costa Gomes held a private session with Communist Party leader Alvaro Cunhal, who placed his militants on alert during the night in response to what he called a "coup in preparation."

Goncalves, whose pro-Communist policies provoked widespread violence and the current confrontation within the three main factions of the armed forces, spent the morning preparing for an afternoon cabinet session.

One of the rumors that swept Lisbon was that Goncalves had gone to a local naval base for protection, but this was officially denied by the Information Ministry Thursday night and again by the prime minister's office when it opened at its normal time today.

S.F. police, firemen return; strike ends

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police and firemen have returned to work, their strike settled by the mayor's use of emergency powers to approve a contract that will cost the city $29,540 per officer.

Two women picketed a station in North Beach Thursday night with signs saying it was "immoral" for policemen to earn such high salaries.

A citizens' suit was filed challenging the constitutionality of the settlement Thursday.

Mayor Joseph Alioto declared a public emergency and defied the board of supervisors' unanimous disapproval of the pact that he personally negotiated. He used a charter law, invoked only once before, that allowed him to settle disputes "involving or threatening the lives, property or welfare of the citizens."

The mayor's contract offer was then approved overwhelmingly by both striking unions. It gave uniformed officers their requested 13.05 per cent pay raise, effective Oct. 15. Alioto's deal also gave amnesty to all strikers, thus rescinding his pledge to fire any officers who walked out.

Policemen, who struck Monday night, voted 800-50 to accept the agreement. Firemen, who walked out 48 hours later, voted 890-12 for approval.

Angry supervisors, who rejected the pact 9-0, denounced the mayor's tactics as "dictatorial" and said the one-year contract would cost city taxpayers $9.4 million. The supervisors had called for a 6.5 per cent wage offer.

"It's a total capitulation to the people who are supposed to uphold the law, and who violated the law," said Diane Feinstein, president of the board of supervisors. She said she was almost too angry to speak.

Mrs. Feinstein and the other supervisors had refused to meet the union's demands and had asked the governor to send in California highway patrolmen and state forest firefighters to protect the city.

The city's downtown association of business leaders had urged the supervisors to stand firm on the wage issue and termed the strike action "totally intolerable."

Alioto said the annual wage increase was 9 per cent. Coupled with fringe benefits, including an automatic pension increase, the package meant the total cost to the city of $29,540 per officer — about $3,000 more than the expired contract.

Although the mayor insisted the city was still safe during the strike, police vehemently disagreed. They said there was a sharp rise in robberies and vandalism, most of which went unreported because of the shortage of officers. There were no increased problems with fires during the brief firemen's walkout, however.

Consumer groups critical of Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz had asked farm, labor, business and consumer groups to his department to hear the government's outlook on food prices. The consumer groups spared no criticism and Butz spared no response.

After hearing predictions of a 9 per cent increase in food prices this year, Consumer Federation of America director Carol T. Foreman said Thursday: "We think American food policy is being made by Marie Antoinette."

The reference was to the French empress who watched mobs rioting for bread and reportedly said, "Let them eat cake."

Mrs. Foreman said consumers will not accept big increases in food prices and asked Butz what he was saying to the companies that recently raised flour prices.

Butz said it was "distinctly unfair" to single out the flour firms because they merely followed the market in their pricing and are currently pricing flour below levels of a year ago.

Planners to get precise Exxon plan next month

By DICK PRAUL

The precise plan for the initial phase of the Exxon Co., U.S.A. $36-million processing plant complex intended to be built in Las Flores Canyon, west of Goleta, is expected to go before the County Planning Commission "in middle or late September," it was learned today.

The public hearing on the plan will soon be set, Planning Director Britt Johnson informed Exxon officials and the County Subdivision Committee Thursday as departmental staffs prepared to check off company performances of 73 conditions for approval attached to the rezoning ordinance adopted by the Board of Supervisors last February.

Meanwhile, County Public Works officials stressed that a county grading permit would not be granted to Exxon prior to any approval of the precise plan by the Planning Commission. Appeal of the planners' approval could be made to the Board of Supervisors as well.

Company officials exhibited a model of the proposed onshore complex at the Planning Commission hearing room during the subdivision committee session. It indicated that a box canyon at the head of Las Flores Canyon will be almost completely filled to provide pads for the processing plant and huge storage units which are to be encircled by a landscaped berm to prevent runoffs from any leaks.

County staffers saw no serious problems arising as a result of the large number of conditions attached to the rezoning, and Stanley Hatch, Exxon attorney, agreed.

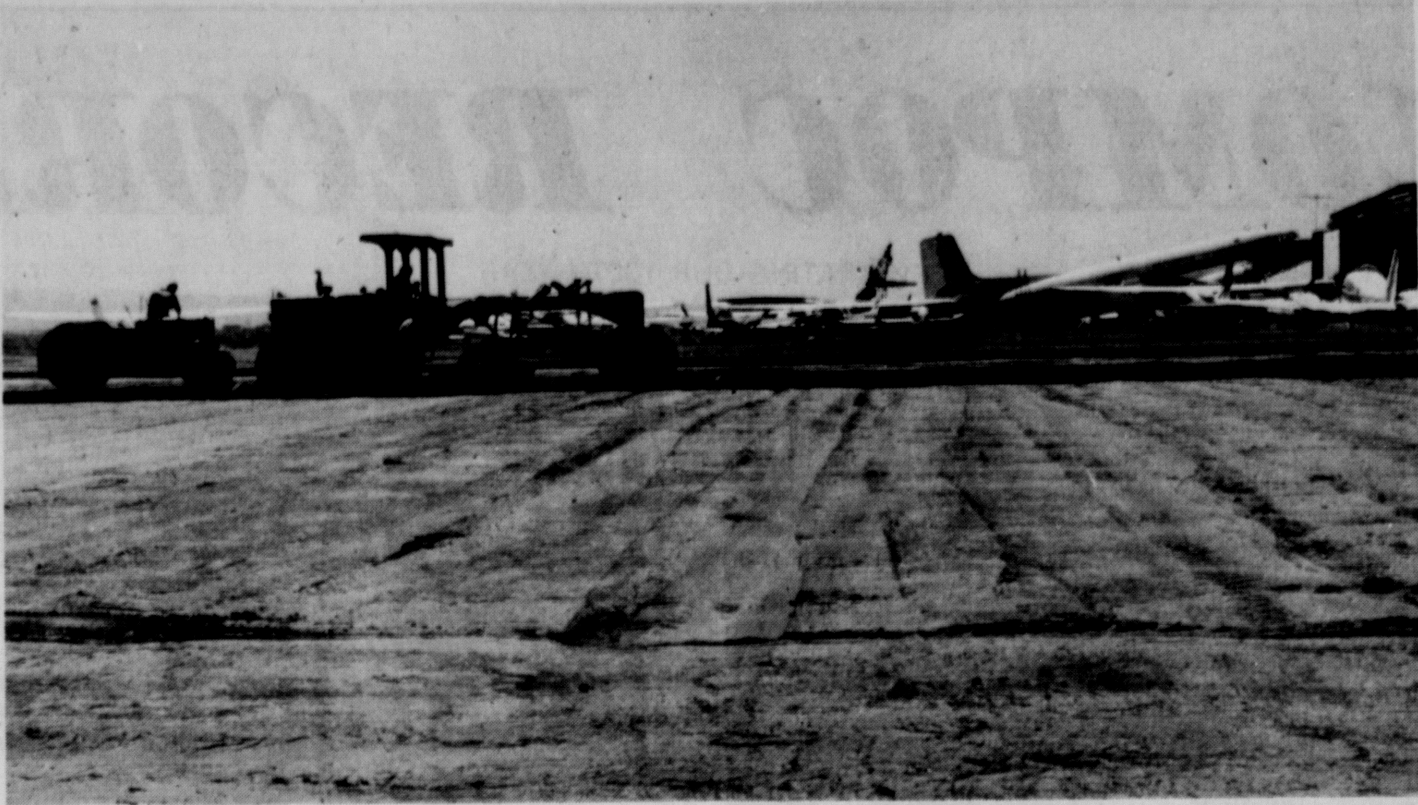

It was determined the County Office of Environmental Quality and the Park Department's landscaping division will review plans for the berm in the flattened canyon in the Refugio-EI Capitan area.

Air Pollution Control District engineers told the committee that they will require that county regulations attached to the ordinance be observed during the pre-construction and construction period as well as during operation of such a plant. This will involve work of many sub-contractors.

The precise plan for facilities under Phase 1 which Exxon now seeks approval for include plans for grading, drainage, temporary staging and storing, landscaping and irrigation, road design, underground pipelines, tanks, structures, buildings, electrical substation and road crossing.

Favorable Board of Architectural Review action is also needed by the company.

But before the company can begin its work, it will also need a permit for the electrical substation and certain other facilities by the State Regional Coastal Conservation Commission which has jurisdiction over ocean side developments.

$42,000 IS BEING spent to expand the Santa Barbara County Airport at Lompoc by nine new tie-downs. The money, however, is not coming out of taxpayer pockets. Airport revenues have made the improvement possible, according to officials.

District incumbents take filing papers

Both incumbents whose seats are up for election in Santa Ynez River Water Conservation District have taken out nomination papers, but neither had filed them today.

Virgil Phelps, representative of Division 2 and Henry Detamanti, representative of Division 3, both in Lompoc, have announced they will seek re-election. For Phelps it would be his third term and for Detamanti, the second. Voters will go to the polls on Nov. 4.

Division 2 lies south of Ocean Avenue; Division 3 covers the northeast quadrant of the City of Lompoc and areas north of Lompoc-Casimira Road and Highway 246.

The two divisions have about 8,000 to 9,000 registered voters. An exact count on the number of registered voters probably will not be computed, because the district's divisions do not conform to precinct lines of other governmental entities.

The two incumbents have until 5 p.m. on Aug. 29 to file their papers. If one or both fail to file, the filing deadline will be extended to Sept. 5. If the two incumbents file and there are no challengers, the election will be voided and the Board of Supervisors will reappoint the two incumbents on the request of the district board.

The holdover representatives are Richard Henning in Division 1, Lompoc; William Laranjo, Division 4, Buellton; and Joe Foss, Division 5, Santa Ynez-Solvang.

Public transit nearer

The County-Cities Area Planning Council has taken action designed to move Santa Barbara County closer in the direction of a countywide public transit district.

At the same time, the council heard a report that the city of Carpinteria's representatives on the council, although unable to attend Thursday's monthly session, favor having the Santa Barbara Metropolitan Transit District extend into Carpinteria and eastward to the Ventura County line.

The council voted 7-0 to refer the proposal of Santa Barbara Mayor David Shiffman to push for expansion of public transit. But it was agreed that meanwhile the council will get recommendations from its Technical Transportation Advisory Committee and await issuance of a report from a private consulting firm on aspects of a countywide program including funding, tax impact and general feasibility.

In another move, the council directed that legal aspects of a countywide district be clarified.

The report on the study by Wilbur Smith Associates of Los Angeles, along with advisory committee and staff recommendations will officially come before the council at its next meeting Oct. 16 in Santa Maria.

Board of Supervisors chairman Francis Beattie presided at the council session Thursday in the supervisors' hearing room in Santa Barbara.

Shiffman said he felt "it is time to leave the planning stage behind and get on with implementation" of a countywide district. He praised the record of the Santa Barbara Metropolitan Transit District as having made steady progress "without mistakes" and being one of the few such districts he knew of that is "living within its budget."

The Santa Barbara Metropolitan Transit District now covers the South Coast area from the Ellwood and UC Santa Barbara area eastward to Summerland, several miles west of the city of Carpinteria. Carpinteria's only public transport means with the rest of the South Coast is by infrequent Greyhound buses.

As for the North County, council executive secretary Clifford Petrie, the only semblance of public transit is now provided by the Community Action Commission which has a temporary grant to transport senior citizens in vans in the Santa Maria, Lompoc and some Santa Ynez Valley areas.

Brown victorious in veto override

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. emerged victorious today from his first veto override battle with the Democratic legislature.

The new governor lost the first override round in the Senate by default but recovered and easily turned back a drive by Assembly Republicans and dissident Democrats to restore $30 million he cut from an emergency $172 million local school aid bill.

Brown, who lobbied Assembly Democrats heavily to sustain the reduction, was described by aides as "obviously pleased" at the outcome. A spokesman for state Schools Superintendent Wilson Riles said, "We're disappointed." Forty-one Assembly Democrats voted to uphold the veto Thursday evening after a bitter floor fight while 10 dissident Democrats and 24 Republicans voted to reverse the veto. The bill originally passed the Assembly 72-5.

It took a two-thirds margin of 54 Assembly votes to restore the reduced funds sought by schools as an offset to spiraling inflation. On Monday, the Senate voted 28-7 to overturn the veto, an action that gubernatorial aides said caught them by surprise.

Brown then launched an intensive campaign of personal lobbying — telephoning Assembly Democrats, inviting them to lunch, and directing aides to provide the lawmakers with information about the impact of the bill and his reduction of funds on school districts.

Republican Ronald Reagan last year became the first California governor in 28 years to have a veto successfully overridden by both houses.

Declaring the taxpayers couldn't afford the full $172 million bill, Brown cut it down to $142 million, or from $115 million to $88 million in state aid and from $57 million to $54 million in increased local funds.

Some legislators, many of them authors of pending appropriation bills, said the governor told them that if the education funds were restored other legislative programs could not be financed because sufficient money would not be available.

Others said he convinced them that adding $30 million more in state and local funds would not significantly improve the quality of education that students receive.

But Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, who led the drive to overturn Brown, noted that many school districts throughout the state faced bankruptcy and called on Democrats to "transcend" loyalty to the governor and vote the extra funds.

He said it would constitute "hypocrisy" for Democrats who long opposed Reagan's school spending budgets to now support a reduction in education funds by Brown.

During the impassioned debate, Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, denounced Brown as "all powerful and all power hungry." He charged the governor with putting his "ego and pride ahead of the welfare of the children and students of California."

Proponents of the override kept the issue technically alive by announcing they would seek to have the action reconsidered. But they conceded in advance there was little chance they could prevail.

Dockworkers get order to load

United Press International A federal judge has ordered barge longshoremen to load two more ships with American grain destined for Russia, and Labor Secretary John Dunlop arranged to meet with AFL-CIO president George Meany to work out a settlement of labor's grain boycott.

Agriculture Department experts say the controversial sale of grain to the Soviets will push domestic food prices up, but not until next year, for the most part.

The flashpoint for the maritime unions' threat to boycott grain shipments to Russia is in the port of Houston, where dockworkers refused earlier this week to load to ships. They were ordered back to work Wednesday, and Thursday night a judge in Corpus Christi, Tex., extended a restraining order against them. He made it apply to two other ships, and possibly a third, besides the Yugoslav vessel that sailed Wednesday.

An International Longshoremen's Association lawyer said the union's grievance is not with management but with the government.

The judge will hold further hearings on Monday.

In other cases with possible legal ramifications, the head of the Minnesota Soybean Growers Association called for federal action to force dockworkers to load the grain, and the Kansas Farm Bureau said it may file an unfair labor practice complaint with the National Labor Relations Board.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Thursday President Ford asked Dunlop to meet with Meany and other labor leaders today to discuss the range of issues behind the boycott.

Meany has said he opposes the grain sales because they will hurt the American consumer. But others say the maritime unions are balking at loading the ships because they want U.S. shippers to get a larger amount of the Soviet loads than they do under current agreements.

Democrats voting to uphold the veto (41): Bane, Berman, Boatwright, Calvo, Carpenter, Chacon, Chel, Cullen, Deddeh, Dixon, Egeland, Fenton, Foran, Garmendi, Goggin, Greene, Gualco, Hart, Hughes, Ingalls, Keene, Keyser, Knox, Lockyer, MacDonald, McAlister, McVitte, Miller, Papan, Perino, Ralph, Robinson, Rosenthal, Siegler, Suitt, Thurman, Tucker, Wilson, Wornum, Z'berg, and McCarthy.

Republicans voting to uphold the veto: None.

Republicans voting to override the veto (24): Antonovich, Arnett, Badham, Bannai, Beverly, Briggs, Burke, Campbell, Chappie, Cline, Collier, Craven, Duffy, Hayden, Lancaster, Lewis, Maddy, McLennan, M o b i l e y, Murphy, Nestande, Nimmo, Priolo, and William Thomas.

Democrats voting to override the veto (10): Alattore, Brown, Chimbole, Davis, Kapiloff, Meade, Montoya, Mori, Vincent Thomas, and Torres.

Not voting or absent (5): Lanterman, Sieroty, Vasconcellos, Vicencia, and Warren.

Coastal commission adopts part of plan

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The state Coastal Commission Thursday adopted two parts of a final four-part plan for the California coastline, setting up guidelines for property owners and finances of the plan.

The commission approved a portion of Part 1 of the plan, which discusses property owners' rights and cost of the plan and Part 2 of the plan, which outlines findings and policies.

Property owners had complained that their rights were being ignored and the plan subjected them to inverse condemnation.

The plan says that key coastal property can be bought for public use or protection and that the owners of this property will be paid fair market value for the land.

"If the property proposed for public acquisition is not in fact bought by the public, it may be put to other uses by its owner consistent with coastal plan policies," the plan states.

The commission said that the rights of the landowner are not absolute and restrictions on the use of private property had been held constitutional by the courts.

"Under the coastal plan, as under many constitutional land-use laws, people can use their land in a variety of ways, but in some cases not as fully or intensively as they might like," it said.

Costs to administer the coastal plan were put between $1.5 and $2.5 million and it was estimated another $125 million (at today's prices) would be spent on land acquisition.

The protection of the California coastline is not a "frill or luxury," the plan said, but is "essential for the state's long-term economic well being."

Intervention asked on Portuguese isle

MACAO (UPI) — The colonial government on the tiny Portuguese island of Timor has called for "international intervention" to put down a bloody civil war raging out of control.

Timor officials, in a communique relayed to Macao, said Thursday Portuguese troops could "no longer control the fighting" between warring nationalist groups.

"The civil war is raging in the rural areas of Dili, the capital, and the nearby mountain areas," the communique said.

Authorities on Timor, 200 miles north of Australia, said the situation "is completely out of control" with outnumbered Portuguese forces withdrawn to a small, neutral area near the port of Dili.

"The longer the delay before international intervention, the more casualties there will be," the communique said.

The message appealed for a ship to evacuate 1,400 persons, mainly Portuguese settlers who have taken refuge in the port area still controlled by Lisbon's troops. The population of the island is just over 600,000.

A government spokesman in the Portuguese colony of Macao, 40 miles from Hong Kong, said Timor authorities sent the communique from the naval radio station in Dili.

The statement said Portuguese forces control only the radio station, the military headquarters and the harbor at Dili.

The communique reported "heavy" casualties in fighting between the right-wing Democratic Union of Timor and the left-wing Revolutionary Front for Independent East Timor. More than 100 persons were believed dead.

The Apodeti party, an anti-Portuguese organization favoring union with neighboring Indonesia, was believed to be staying out of the civil war.

The Democratic Union touched off the violence 11 days ago by seizing key installations in the capital in a right-wing uprising.

Quake forecast system seen

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Assistant U.S. Interior Secretary Jack Carlson says the government will set up a prototype earthquake forecasting system in the nation's major earthquake zones.

Carlson said Thursday earthquake prediction was "now beyond the experimental stage. We can predict quakes on a better than random basis."

He said the forecasting system would use specialized seismic equipment to measure earth movement and stress. The measurements would be compared with data collected from previous quakes to determine the probability of an upcoming tremor.

Carlson cautioned that the science of quake forecasting still had a long way to go — and was not nearly as accurate as weather prediction.

U.S. moves toward better relations with Cubans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is moving obliquely toward improved relations with Cuba.

The first cautious diplomatic steps Thursday triggered criticism from Cubans in exile in America and set up a test of Congress' mood toward the communist government of Fidel Castro.

The U.S. moves were related to indirect commercial relations with Cuba and other Latin countries:

— The State Department lifted its ban on sales to Cuba by overseas subsidiaries of U.S. manufacturing firms. But the ban will continue on direct exports to the island from the United States.

— The U.S. government will now allow ships calling on Cuban ports to refuel in U.S. ports.

— A third decision requires Congressional approval, which will set up a test of Congress' attitude toward relaxing tensions in the Caribbean. The State Department will ask Congress to resume certain types of food assistance to countries that trade with Cuba. Only a few nations, including Chile and Haiti, will be affected.

Castro, who took power in a 1959 coup, has sought better relations with the United States in recent months. This month he returned nearly $2 million in hijack ransom money to Southern Airlines.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a recent visitor to Cuba, expressed delight with the shift in U.S. policy. He called it "unquestionably a major step forward on the path toward renewed relations between Cuba and the United States."

McGovern said "the Ford administration has come a long way in a short time, and I commend the President for an historic contribution."

WILDERNESS BOUND. Cathy Homer of Vandenberg Girl Scout Cadette Troop 165, and Sheri Rogers of Lompoc Senior Troop 279, left and right, shoulder their packs in preview of a nine day trip into the High Sierras next week with 11 Girl Scouts and five adult escorts. Leaving this Saturday, the group will cover 60 miles of rugged country under leadership of Randall Coffee, a veteran outdoorsman.

CC Women to sponsor flag project

Suggested by Chris (Mrs. Earl T.) Cass and accepted by Shirley (Mrs. Robert C.) Lilley, president-elect of Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, as a project for her year, is instigation of flag-flying throughout the city. To this effect, a CC Women's committee will contact local merchants and individuals to ask their support. Daisy (Mrs. Earle E.) Sweetland has accepted chairmanship with Mrs. Cass.

The project was generally discussed and approved at the luncheon meeting Monday in Valley Club. Thought to be especially appropriate in a bicentennial year, the flag flying is desired not only for that year but as a continuing habit.

First to be approached for their support are merchants along Ocean Ave. from Seventh Street to Ryon Park, and H Street from Northside Shopping Center south to Cypress Ave. It is there that flag standards are already placed.

Girl Scouts leave for adventures in Sierras

Training since February for a nine day backpack trip in the Sierras, 11 Girl Scouts of Lompoc and Vandenberg leave this Saturday on their high adventure. Tres Condados Girl Scout Council is sponsoring the event. Escorted by five adults the group will be led by Randall Coffee of Lompoc, a veteran of 20 years experience, and Andrew Bradley of Vandenberg. The other adults are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brickner and Miss Cathy Chittum.

Girl Scout participants are Pam Beard, Dorothy Pillion, Gail Egnor, Dona and Maria Bradley and Kathy Homer of Vandenberg; Patty Trueman, Sheri Rogers, Beth Coffee, Barbara Giles and Kathy Thompson.

Six monthly training sessions and earning of six Girl Scout badges showing proficiency in related outdoor skills have prepared the members for this special test of skill and stamina. The party will pack in and head for the top of Blackcap Mountain, cross La Conte Divide, and scale 13,000 foot Mount Goddard, up the western side glacier.

Since spring the girls have taken several hikes to Point Sal Beach, the Pool Rock Indian Cave and Manzana Schoolhouse in Los Padres, and on a recent overnight trip hiked the 20 miles from Gaviota to Jalama Beach.

At a recent practice session the Scouts gave careful attention to the packing of tent and stove, down bag and jacket, change of clothes, and food. They expect to carry a quarter of their body weight, or roughly 30 lbs. of equipment on their 7-10 miles daily hike.

The trip has been made possible by generous financial support from public-spirited groups anxious to see that the Girl Scouts have the opportunity to develop new skills and see the beauty of the high country.

Donations which helped provide for transportation, food and some equipment, have been made by Vandenberg AFB Officers Wives Club ($100), VAFB Noncommissioned Wives Club ($50); the daytime Kiwanis Club ($150); night-time Kiwanis Club of Lompoc ($50). In self-help projects, the girls have held a number of baked goods and enchilada sales to help provide for the individual equipment.

Shortly following the group's return August 31, Coffee expects to start plans for a similar hiking program next year, hoping to have the program expanded for more girls to participate. Long active in outdoor programs for boys, this is Coffee's first-time trip as leader for a Girl Scout mountain trip. His daughter is a member of the party.

Farm Bureau seeks queen candidates

Farm Bureau is calling for the beautiful girls of Santa Barbara County who are agriculturally informed, to participate in the organization's search for its 1976 Queen.

According to Santa Barbara County Farm Bureau president DeWayne Holmdahl, the queen will be chosen at the annual banquet in October. Details of the contest are available at the Farm Bureau office in Buellton. The deadline for entries is October 1. The girl chosen Santa Barbara County Farm Bureau Queen will then compete in a state contest to be held December 7-10 in conjunction with the California Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting at the Sahara Tahoe in Stateline, Nev.

To qualify as Santa Barbara County Queen, a candidate must be a member of a Farm Bureau family and a resident of the sponsoring county. She must be between the ages of 18 and 30, and a high school graduate. She should also possess photogenic qualities and display an enthusiastic interest in agriculture.

The girl chosen Farm Bureau Queen will serve in various capacities throughout the year representing the 150 million dollar agricultural industry of Santa Barbara County.

County representatives vying for the state crown will compete for a chance to travel to St. Louis, Mo., as part of the California delegation to the American Farm Bureau Convention in St. Louis. Other duties of Miss California Farm Bureau will include travel throughout the state with participation in county events, appearances before civic organizations as well as radio and tv assignments.

For further information one may contact Bob Hunt, Farm Bureau Secretary, 688-7479.

Indian Maiden calendar is announced

A mother-daughter tea will be the first entertainment feature of the 1975-76 calendar year as those in the Okizu Nation Indian Maiden program of the YMCA begin a new year. The Maiden program is designed for girls at least five years of age or in kindergarten, but no older than eight or in third grade of school. Their mothers are an integral part of the program, meeting with the girls and taking an active part in all activities. The program stresses respect for family, friends, neighbors, and the community in which we live. The program aim is "Friendship Always." Current nation chief is Betty (Mrs. William H.) Smith Jr. Mothers interested in the program for their daughters and themselves are invited to call the YMCA at 736-9622 or stop by the office, 222 North I Street.

Recruitment week has been set for Sept. 26 - Oct. 2. Slated for October are a family skating party and a camp-out at Arroyo Grande. November will bring a cake walk participation at the Soroptimists holiday bazaar in Veterans Memorial Hall and the children's Christmas parade.

In December, members will host a Christmas party and prepare a Christmas cheer basket for a needy family.

Dear Abby

Pre-marital affair still haunts marriage

DEAR ABBY: I am able to appreciate the wisdom of your advice to the girl who was reluctant to tell her fiancé that she had undergone an abortion before they met.

The adage "honesty is the best policy" can, in some cases, hold nothing but regret for the wide-eyed innocent who is eager to start married life with no secrets.

As a naive 19-year-old, I confessed to my fiancé that there had been another man in my life before I met him. And I foolishly told him who it was.

Thirty years and four adult children later, my husband still throws this man in my face periodically, even though I have been a devoted and faithful wife.

How much better off we both would have been had I not made that confession.

I hope you will print this for others who might be inclined to tell all. Silence is indeed golden.

IDIOT WAR BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: Silence is not always golden. It is sometimes "guilt."

DEAR ABBY: I would like to be cremated when I die. Is that possible? I am a Catholic.

Also how much is involved, moneywise? Please answer in your column. There must be others wanting the same information. Thank you.

WANTS CREMATION

DEAR WANTS: Catholics may now be cremated. The cost will depend upon your funeral director, but it shouldn't cost any more than $300 to go up in smoke.

DEAR ABBY: Venereal disease is now second on the list of communicable diseases. The first is the common cold.

Most people don't know that if V.D. goes untreated, it can affect the heart, and spinal cord, and can eventually lead to death.

The National Community Service Corps has established a national hotline that can be called free from anywhere in the U.S.A.

It is operated mostly by teen-agers who have all the answers concerning V.D., including the symptoms to look for as well as where to go for free examination and treatment in your own community.

The number to call is 1-800-523-1885. JO-ANNE IN MASS.

Cooking talents

By BETTY LAURENT

Two "tried and true" recipes were entered by Ada M. (Mrs. L.L.) Whaley of Santa Maria in the recent cookie contest sponsored by Judy's of California (cake decorating and candy supplies.) Winning the first prize of $25 was her recipe for

Buttery Sugary Spices

1 cube oleomargarine
1/2 cup firmly packed golden brown sugar
1/4 cup sifted flour
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 tsp. lemon flavoring or juice
1/4 cup sugar and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon sifted together and set aside.

Cream oleo; add sugar and stir until fluffy. Add lemon juice. Sift flour and nutmeg together and blend well with first mixture. Break off pieces the size of a walnut and roll into balls, then into sugar-cinnamon mixture. Press with cookie molds. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Judy's has patterned molds for various designs. Says Mrs. Whaley "I love your presses. Formerly I used old water glasses with cut designs on the bottom." As for her cookies, she reports "I keep a supply on hand at all times for our nine great-grandkids."

The second recipe of Mrs. Whaley sounds equally good. It is for

Quick Change Party Cookies

2 cups flour
3 tbsp. corn starch
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1-3 cup sugar
1 egg
3/4 cup softened margarine
2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 cup nuts, chopped fine
2 tsp. instant cocoa mix
1/2 cup raisins, chopped

Sift dry ingredients three times; blend in next three ingredients. Divide into four parts. Pat first part flat with hands, then sprinkle with nuts and roll up jelly-roll fashion, 13 inches long. Repeat process with second portion but sprinkle with cocoa mix. Use raisins on the third portion; leave the fourth plain.

Cut off pieces 1 inch thick and lay cut side down on ungreased cookie sheet. Press with cookie press. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

M. Pulling of Old Mill Road, Santa Barbara, was winner of the second prize of $15 with her recipe from Australia called

Coconut Shortbread Cookies

4 oz. butter or margarine

3 oz. sugar
1 breakfast cup of flour
1/4 cup coconut
vanilla, 1/2 tsp.

Cream butter and sugar; add other ingredients. Roll into small balls. Press flat with molds. Bake at 325 degrees for 15 minutes. Slow oven is essential. Yield: about two dozen cookies.

Flavorable cookies simple to make are those for which Dolores Russell of Santa Barbara won the third prize of $10. They are

Spritz Cookies

1/2 cup margarine
1/2 cup white sugar
1 egg yolk
1/2 tsp. whole milk
1 1/2 cup flour unsifted
1/4 tsp. almond or lemon extract
Preheat oven to 375 degrees. All ingredients should be at room temperature.

Cream shortening and sugar; add egg, milk and extract and beat until fluffy. Fold in flour. Do not refrigerate — this is the secret.

Using cookie press, form cookies on ungreased baking sheets. Bake 8 minutes. Cool on paper towels before storing in cookie jar. Yield: 200.

These can be decorated at Christmas in a variety of ways. Color dough with red or green food coloring while mixing; ice and sprinkle with colored sugar, nuts or coconuts. Your imagination can be your guide.

Earning an honorable mention and the gift of six cookie presses was the recipe of Cathy McJilton of Lompoc. Her recipe is for

Chocolate Almond Cookies

1 cup sugar
1 cup Crisco
2 eggs
2 tsp. vanilla extract
1 tsp. almond extract
3 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. dry cocoa

Cream together Crisco and sugar; add eggs, flavorings, and beat well. Sift together flour, salt, cocoa. Gradually add to creamed mixture and mix until smooth. Force through cookie press onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven for 10-12 minutes.

Editor's Note: Other Record readers are invited to share their favorite recipes of all varieties through the weekly Cooking Talents column. Please type if possible and tell why the recipes are your favorites. Mail to Lompoc Record Cooking Talents, Lompoc, Ca. or bring to office at 115 North H Street.

Celebrations of Holy Communion, following the Book of Common Prayer will be held this Sunday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 209 E. Central Ave., at 8 and 10 a.m. The Church School meets at 10 a.m. Midweek celebrations of Holy Communion are held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and 9 a.m. Thursday. Other classes and groups meet as scheduled.

Bethany Lutheran Church

An informal service will be held in both the 8:15 and the 10:45 services Sunday at Bethany Lutheran Church, 135 South E Street. Pastor Eugene Hannemann will be the speaker, using Matthew 16:21-26 as his sermon text. Sunday School and adult Bible classes will be held as usual beginning at 9:30 a.m. August 30, Bethany youth will go to Ventura for miniature golf.

Peace Lutheran Church

This Sunday, the worship service at Peace Lutheran Church 1000 W. Ocean Ave. will be at 9 a.m. Emphasis is on St. Bartholomew, one of the original 12 disciples of Jesus. The sermon for this Red Saints Day on the church calendar is based on the life of Bartholomew. It is titled: "Beautiful Dreamer." Rev. David Miller, pastor, will preach at the 10:30 a.m. worship service at the First United Methodist Church in Lompoc this Sunday as well.

Calvary Baptist Church

In both the morning and evening services at Calvary Baptist Church this Sunday, Jack Kewley will preach. A former member of Calvary, he is now in ministerial graduate training at Bethel Theological Seminary. The morning service is at 11 and the evening service at 6.

In the training hour sessions following the evening service at 7:15, adults will see another in the series of films by Dr. Henry Brandt on the general subject of Christian growth. Youth groups and other training hour classes will meet at the same hour.

Church of Christ

"Where Will You Go?" is the subject for the Sunday morning sermon at the Church of Christ, 138 North O Street. The speaker will be Garth Smith, local evangelist. Bob Bliss, associate minister will speak at the 6 p.m. service on the subject "Signs of the Times." This will be the last weekend before he returns to The Sunset School of Preaching.

A mini-session of a men's training and development course will be conducted this Saturday at 8 a.m. The course is nine weeks in length and open to teen-agers through adults. The mini-session will serve as an inroduction to the course and for the purpose of enrolling students. It will be taught by Tom Staggs, assisted by Glen Cooper, Gary Ingraham and Garth Smith.

The public is invited to attend regular services of the church. One may call the office, 6-3517, for more information.

THINK ABOUT IT!
BY BOB LILLEY
We note that the U.S. House of Representatives has just approved a one million dollar expenditure to "automate" the elevators in the House Bldg. Thereby saving the cost of operators, right? Wrong! The operators will be kept on to insure that Congressmen will arrive at the proper floors on time for important House and Committee votes and hearings! Is that what they mean about avoiding a "floor fight"?

Balloonist fails by 3,000 miles

MASHPEE, Mass. (UPI) — Robert Sparks wanted to be the first to cross the Atlantic in a balloon, but he failed again by more than 3,000 miles. Sparks' second try at the ocean crossing was ruined by a leak in his 90-foot helium balloon. Only 18 hours into the flight, the craft was ditched Thursday evening about 125 miles out to sea, and Sparks was picked up by a Coast Guard helicopter. "I just couldn't bring that balloon to equilibrium," Sparks said. Sparks, 39, of Gladstone,

N.J., said his transatlantic crossing plans were over for "this season." The tired and shivering adventurer was hugged and kissed by his wife and daughters.

Alien arrests total 30,000

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UPI) — Immigration officials arrested nearly 30,000 illegal aliens in California alone last month and 60,000 in the 10-state western region.

In a statement issued Thursday, officials said more than $1 million in drugs and narcotics was confiscated in July, including more than 10,000 pounds of marijuana and 6,000 pills.

Of the 60,000 total aliens arrested, about 14,500 of them held jobs in this country, a spokesman for the service said. He estimated that more than 500,000 illegal aliens hold jobs in the southwestern United States.

Authorities discovered some 1,700 illegal aliens working in Los Angeles plants and factories during July.

The spokesman said the July figures were low, because heavy rains raised water levels along the Rio Grande River, which forms the border between Texas and Mexico, making it difficult for persons to cross there into the United States.

These figures do not include 632 persons who were arrested for smuggling illegal aliens across the border or more than 2,000 aliens actually smuggled in, he noted.

Counts self out

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said Thursday he had "no illusions" about becoming President Ford's vice presidential candidate and said he expected Nelson Rockefeller to retain the spot.

"It's flattering I guess and exciting to be talked of in those terms, but it is also a political no man's land," Baker told a news conference.

"I know better than most anybody that there is absolutely nothing you can do about that. I fully expect Nelson Rockefeller to be the Republican nominee for vice president. It ought to be the president's right to determine. I think, and I don't have any illusions about it."

New regulations prepared on denial of mortgages

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Brown administration will make public next week sweeping regulations designed to curtail "red-lining," the practice of wholesale mortgage denials in inner cities.

Administration officials contend the practice economically strangles inner cities populated largely by minorities and results in the further deterioration of neighborhoods and increased crime.

The regulations, the result of hearings by Business and Transportation Secretary Donald E. Burns, will impose new disclosure requirements on savings and loans and provide remedies aimed at reducing the use of red-lining, it was learned Thursday.

The new rules, which the administration plans to unveil next Tuesday and which will take effect next year, should have a major impact on the nation's lending industry. Forty-five per cent of all the assets of the nation's savings and loans reportedly are deposited in California-chartered institutions regulated by the state.

Red-lining is the practice of denying home loans in a specific geographic area irrespective of the credit worthiness of the individual applicant.

Those lending institutions willing to admit they use red-lining defend it on the basis that some areas have deteriorated to the point that dropping property values will jeopardize their investments.

"Red-lining has effectively strangled economically the vast inner city areas in California which have been paralyzed for a lack of mortgage capital," said Llewelyn Werner, a Burns aide.

"These regulations will bring a new era of openness and honesty in the way savings and loans operate in California and represent only the first step by this administration to put in check often capricious lending practices which have enormous social impact," he said.

"We are not pointing fingers at the savings and loans but rather trying to work out a reasonable and effective way of getting mortgage money back into the minority communities," he added.

"It is clear by our studies of the major cities in California that red-lining does exist, that it results in economic decay of the inner city which then results in the creation of vast wastelands and a rise in crime," Werner said.

The regulations will require savings and loans to disclose where they lend and receive their money and will provide "remedies" aimed at curtailing red-lining, Werner said.

They will be the strictest regulations on the subject in the nation, he added.

Burns also plans to propose legislation dealing with red-lining by banks, Werner said.

Officials back down on RFK police files

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Officials backed down a bit Thursday in their resolve to keep police files on the Robert Kennedy assassination sealed, agreeing to answer written questions about the 1968 shooting and the ensuing police investigation.

But the Police Commission still refused to turn over files on the case to anyone, including authorities directing a re-examination of the case to determine whether there may have been a second gunman in addition to convicted assassin Sirhan Sirhan.

A high-ranking police official, meanwhile, insisted at a City Council hearing that any material gathered during the original investigation and later destroyed was irrelevant and had "absolutely no bearing on the case to determine the guilt or innocence of anyone."

The commission authorized a five-member panel to receive written questions from any interested party and to compose written replies containing as much available information as possible.

In cases where the questioner desired elaboration, he would meet in person with one member of the committee. All responses will be based on a variety of materials including a 10-volume summary of the police investigation, files of "factual back-up material," photographs of the death scene and the autopsy on Kennedy's body and statements by eyewitnesses.

"We hope to provide the fullest possible access to the material, while doing everything in our power to protect the rights of privacy of innocent individuals and the integrity of the police department's investigative process," commission president Samuel Williams explained.

Thunderstorms hit areas; one killed by tornado

United Press International

Violent thunderstorms swept several parts of the country Thursday and a tornado in the Midwest killed one person.

Thunderstorms early today were spread from New England across the Great Lakes and into the northern Plains. Other storms hit the northern Rockies and the Gulf coast.

A tornado Thursday sliced through the Lake Pepin area on the Mississippi River border of Wisconsin and Minnesota, killing one person and injuring several others. Houseboats were tossed about like children's toy boats or overturned in a marina. One woman who escaped injury said she saw boats sailing through the air over her craft.

Authorities at Pepin, Wis., said Mrs. Ellen Donahue, 57, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, drowned when a houseboat was overturned in Lake Pepin, a broad spot in the Mississippi. Her husband was pulled from the water to safety.

Several persons were injured and hospitalized, but none of the injuries were believed serious, authorities said.

The storm knocked out power in both Lake City and Wabasha, Minn., and a Lake City hospital was forced to switch to emergency power.

Authorities estimated damage in the Lake City, Minn., area at more than $1 million and 50 National Guardsmen were called out to keep order and help residents.

"Every street in town is blocked with trees," Lake City Mayor Tony Strickland said.

Winds also collapsed a wall and tore away part of the roof of a Holiday Inn motel at Tomah, Wis., damaging seven rooms.

Heavy thunderstorms Thursday also swept across northern Illinois and southern Lake Michigan, where special marine warnings were posted for boaters.

In Chicago, the storm caused power failures and flooded viaducts as nearly three inches of rain fell in some areas. Lightning struck an antenna on the roof of the suburban Oak Park police station and forced police to switch over to emergency power.

Souix Falls, S.D., received more than three inches of rain, and an unofficial total of five inches fell southeast of the city. Flash flooding was anticipated in the area.

At Havre, Mont., residents were shaken by thunderstorms producing wind gusts to above 70 miles per hour. Heavy thundershowers also necessitated continuation of a flash flood watch for parts of central and southern Idaho.

Mrs. Ford believes comments got votes

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — First Lady Betty Ford says she thinks her candid comments on sex life with the President didn't cost him any votes. "I think I made him a few."

Speaking as she walked in the rain at this resort village Thursday, Mrs. Ford said she had no regrets about a McCall's magazine interview that quoted her as saying she would tell any inquiring reporters that she slept with her husband "as often as possible."

But Mrs. Ford also acknowledged the President "ribbed me a bit" about the interview. She appeared a little annoyed when a crowd of reporters and about 200 spectators pursued her down the street after she left a restaurant.

"Where is the President? You should be with the President," she told the reporters.

One reporter showed her a local newspaper with a headline that read, "Mrs. Ford Does It Again — Speaks Frankly about Sex." The First Lady said "that's their headline, that's not my headline."

"You know me well enough to know that I always speak frankly," she said.

Mrs. Ford, wearing a bright yellow pants suit, then ducked into a ski clothing store to get out of the rain and later made her way home in a car driven by a Secret Service agent to join the President, who had been out playing golf.

The Fords accepted an invitation to dinner at a nearby home owned by Fitzhugh Scott, a Milwaukee architect.

The First Lady had lunch with her daughter Susan. They were joined by the restaurant's owner, Mrs. Larry Burdick, and Gloria Brown, whose family has been sharing the vacation home that the Fords are renting.

Susan was asked her reaction to her mother's comments but said "enough has been said." She then walked off to do some shopping.

Mrs. Ford came here with the President on Aug. 10, but has decided to stay on for a few more days of relaxation instead of leaving with him next Sunday on a return trip to Washington that will include stops in Chicago and Milwaukee and Monday.

Susan joined her family here last weekend and plans to stay on with her mother. She came from Topeka, Kan., where she was working for the summer as a photographer for the Capital-Journal newspaper. Asked how she liked the work, she said "I loved it."

Postcard voting registration near

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians would be allowed to register by mail to vote, starting with the November 1976 election, under legislation which has passed the Senate.

The bill (AB822) by Assemblyman James Keyser, D-Sepulveda, passed on a 22-14 vote Thursday and was returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments. The bill required a minimum of 21 votes.

Under the measure, Californians could obtain registration postcards at supermarkets, banks or through civic organizations.

The postage-paid cards could be used to register, to re-register after moving and to change party affiliation or names.

The Senate voted largely along party lines.

Agents kicked out; Tahoe hotel fined

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The Nevada Gaming Commission Thursday fined the Sahara Tahoe hotel at Lake Tahoe, $25,000 for kicking two state agents out of the casino counting room during a surprise audit.

The vote was 3-2 with chairman Peter Echeverria saying the fine was too light while Commissioner Clair Haycock said it was "unduly harsh."

All five commissioners found the hotel-casino, owned by the Del E. Webb interests, violated Nevada law by removing the two auditors who had first been admitted and then told the leave the counting room May 30.

Commissioner Frank Schreck of Las Vegas, in making the motion for the $25,000 fine, said the commission was "faced with the responsibility with indicating to the industry that our agents cannot be turned away and thwarted." He said there were areas of mitigation in this case and he did not believe there was anything irregular going on in the counting room at the time.

Chairman Echeverria had supported a $50,000 fine which had been asked for by the State Gaming Control board.

Michigan prison rampage subdued

IONIA, Mich. (UPI) — Prison guards used tear gas Thursday to subdue more than 400 inmates of the maximum security Michigan Reformatory who went on a rampage and took over prison buildings in a protest against prison conditions.

The prison guards carried shotguns but no shots were fired. Two inmates suffered injuries in what State Corrections Director Perry Johnson called "a pretty serious disturbance."

"Everything is secured now," Johnson said. "We have the men back in their cells."

At one point the rebellious inmates took over buildings containing the prison's kitchen, dining room and auditorium. Johnson said they damaged kitchen equipment but that food service would be restored quickly.

Prison officials said the inmates were protesting a wide range of conditions and policies of the prison — including the cancellation of inmate activities due to inadequate numbers of personnel to supervise them. The prison has about 1,025 inmates.

"The basic grievance was a resentment over the curtailment of activities because of staff shortages from time to time," Johnson said.

The disorders began in the prison yard.

Prisoners had gathered in the yard for their recreation period but refused to return to their cells when the period ended, saying they would stay until their grievances were settled.

But it began raining, and prisoners jumped a fence and took over the buildings.

Johnson said it was at this point that squads of officers carrying shotguns were ordered to clear prisoners out of the buildings.

Tear gas was used when the inmates tried to sabotage the prison's electronic cell-closing system and release other prisoners, Johnson said.

One prisoner suffered serious cuts on his arm when he was shoved through a window. He was taken to a nearby hospital for treatment. A second inmate injured his leg when jumping a fence.

Prison officials planned to meet with representatives of the inmates to hear their grievances and said they expected that most of the prisoners demand would be taken care of.

The grievances included restrictive dress code policy, short hours at the prison's law library and store privileges.

Liberation group admits bombing

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — A message signed by the New World Liberation Front claims responsibility for the bombing of two unoccupied sheriff's cars at the Marin County Civic Center, saying the act was "an expression of solidarity from the underground."

The three-paragraph communique was received Thursday by San Francisco radio station KSAN. It called the attack a "celebration of the spirit of comrade George Jackson."

The two cars were demolished on the eve of the fourth anniversary of the attempted breakout at San Quentin prison in which three guards, Jackson and two other convicts were killed.

Deputy Tom McMains was standing about 100 yards from one of the patrol cars when the first bomb went off.

"It sounded like a .357 magnum next to your ear," he said. "Flames went right through the roof. I hit the ground on all fours."

Geiberger leads TPC

Rough roughs up Jack

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Al Geiberger said he played funny golf Thursday, but nobody else was laughing — least of all Jack Nicklaus.

Nicklaus, cruising alone in front late in the first round of the $250,000 Tournament Players Championship, saw his chances for the opening round lead scuttled because of foot-deep grass alongside the 17th fairway.

"I think we should have rough, but this stuff was awful," was Nicklaus' assessment. "I don't see how people walk through it. You could lose small children in the stuff."

Rather than lose a small child, Nicklaus lost two strokes to par on the hole and fell into a second place tie behind Geiberger.

Geiberger produced a four under par 66 over the heat-seared, rough-lined Colonial Country Club course to take the lead by himself. That came a day after he fired a stunning 63 during the pro-am.

Tied with Nicklaus at 67, a shot back, were Hale Irwin, who usually plays well on the tough courses, and Bob Dickson, who hasn't been playing well anywhere lately.

Three more players came in with two under 68s — Brian Allin, Jim Wiechers and Mike Wynn. Back in the pack came many of the notables competing in this event which players and officials alike hope to make one of the world's major championships.

Gary Player and Arnold Palmer stayed fairly close with 71s, but at 73 came Billy Casper, Gene Littler, British Open champion Tom Watson and last week's Hartford winner Don Bies.

Another Who's Who appeared in the 75 shot — Tom Weiskopf, Lee Trevino and Bruce Crampton. Eight of the competitors, the best the tour has to offer, shot 80 or worse.

"I played a funny round of golf," said Geiberger, who has already surpassed the $100,000 mark for the first time in his 16-year tour career. "I was two over par early and playing defensively. I was thinking that I had really wasted a round when I shot that 63 in the pro-am."

But Geiberger worked his way back to even par with five holes to play and then proceeded to birdie four of those with putts of 15, 12, 12 and 18 feet. And he did it in the heat of the day, with temperatures alongside the Trinity River rising to 100 degrees and the humidity not far behind.

"You could really feel the heat coming down the stretch," Geiberger said. "There was no movement of air at all. And when you got on the greens, you could really feel the temperature."

Nicklaus, seeking his fifth victory of the year, played perhaps the best golf of the day.

"I played a pretty good round of golf, I really did," he said. "These are the conditions I like to play in. It's hot, but we get heat every week. Nobody ever enjoys being pushed down in the ground by heat."

Retirement: don't talk about it, just do it

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Unlike Mark Donohue, Parnelli Jones never said he was retiring. He just did.

There was, Jones said, a purpose in doing it that way. He was to superstitious to do it the way Donohue did.

"It's always been considered a jinx in racing to get up and say you're retired," the 1963 Indianapolis 500 champion said. "Frankly, that's why I've never said it and never will."

"Jimmy Bryan said he was through, made a comeback and was killed in the first race after that. He's just an example. There were others and now there's Mark Donohue."

"I just believe when you say you're going to quit, you should stay quit. It's pretty obvious Mark Donohue should have stayed retired."

Jones, 43, was being brutally frank but that's the way he is. He left the U.S. Auto Club championship car trail as a driver before the 1968 Indianapolis 500 and he's stayed away from it although he dabbles in offroad racing.

"I didn't want to make any statement," he said. "I just wanted to back out of it slowly."

Bryan won at Indianapolis in 1958. He was killed at Langhorne, Pa., in 1960.

Jones admitted he believed in racing luck. He pointed out that Donohue's Formula 1 car blew a tire in the wrong place Sunday while the American was practicing for the Austrian Grand Prix.

"It was really a stroke of bad luck," he said. "I'm told he had a blowout on probably the worst possible place on the course. If he'd been lucky, it would have happened somewhere else and he wouldn't have been hurt."

Jones said he considered Formula 1 racing the most dangerous type of racing in the world.

"I'm not saying it's 10 times worse than championship cars or stock cars," he declared, "but I do think it's the most dangerous. The cars are very fragile and the courses are up and down. So there are a lot of things for the driver to overcome."

"Frankly, that's why I was never interested in it even though I had some offers. I was worried about my machinery breaking down and affecting my safety."

"But all racing has danger in it. People consider stock car racing reasonably safe, yet Tiny Lund was killed last weekend. So it's a hard thing to figure out."

Jones and his business partner, Vel Miletich, have a racing team based in Torrance, Calif., where they also have a Ford dealership. Mario Andretti is driving a Formula 1 car in the team's initial Grand Prix effort.

"We're all saddened by Mark's death but it won't have any effect on what we decide to do about next year as far as our Formula 1 program goes," he said.

"Mario loves Formula 1 racing and he wants to do it more than anything else. He's already won at Indy and he's won the USAC national championship three times. He considers Formula 1 racing a personal challenge to him."

Quick Kaat 'slurves' opponents

United Press International
No wonder Jim Kaat of the Chicago White Sox has staged a brilliant comeback in the last two seasons and is about to become a 20-game winner for the second straight year.

He throws "slurves" and makes "quick pitches."

It sounds as if both should be illegal and American League hitters would gladly agree. Except that the veteran lefthander's "slurve" is a product of his own fertile imagination and his "quick pitch" is really nothing more than Bob Turley did with the New York Yankees in the 1950s.

"A slurve is a cross between a slider and a curve," says Kaat with a touch of a put-on. "And pitching quickly takes the batters' minds off what I'll throw."

"I started to pitch faster last season at Johnny Sain's advice," adds Kaat, who had a 21-13 record in 1974 and is 18-9 this season after beating the New York Yankees 2-1 Thursday night.

Kaat went 8 2-3 innings Thursday night yielding seven hits and four walks before Rich Gossage finished up. Jerry Hairston's two-out run-scoring single in the ninth inning broke a 1-1 deadlock and gave the White Sox the win. George Medich suffered his 14th loss against 11 victories for the Yankees.

Orioles 4, Rangers 2
Brooks Robinson drove in Tim Nordbrook with a one-out double in the top of the 14th and Elrod Hendricks singled in an insurance run for the Orioles. Jim Palmer went 12 innings for the Orioles but failed to win his 20th game. The Orioles tied the score in the seventh on a double by Doug DeCinces and Robinson's single.

Indians 7, Royals 3
George Hendrick and Oscar Gamble hit homers for the Indians, who knocked the Royals 6½ games behind the AL Western Division leading A's. Jackie Brown allowed nine hits but went the distance for the Indians while Mark Littell suffered the loss for the Royals.

A's 5, Brewers 2
Jim Holt had three hits, including a two-run single in the fourth inning, and scored two runs as the A's handed the Brewers their sixth straight loss and 21st in their last 25 games. Ken Holtzman scattered six hits for his 15th victory for the three-time world champion A's. Pete Broberg was the loser.

Keeping track

Howell slumping, Gray looks great

Lompoc's Roy Howell went 0-5 in a fourteen-inning game against Baltimore last night. The Rangers lost 4-2. Jim Palmer started for the Orioles. Howell is currently hitting .251 (71-282) with 10 home runs and 41 RBIs.

Johnny Gray seems to be shining like a future star in the Green Bay Packers training camp. According to our source in Green Bay, Gray has looked "very good" so far and has about a 99 per cent chance of staying with the team when it breaks camp. The Pack is currently down to 53 men with 10 more to drop.

Kevin Drake (Dubuque Packers "A" Midwest League) went 1-5 in a doubleheader last night against Wisconsin Rapids and played leftfield. The Packers lost both ends of the twin-bill, 3-1 and 4-3, to be eliminated from the Midwest League Northern Division race. Dubuque is settled in third place 11½ games back of the league leaders, with 10 games to go.

Drake is now hitting .237 (31-131) for the Packers with 21 runs, 4 doubles, 3 homers, 11 RBI and 9 stolen bases. Dubuque's season ends August 29 and sources said Drake may be promoted to the "AAA" Iowa Oaks (American Association) for the '76 season.

The future looks good for Gary Hargis. Hargis continues to play consistently good ball for the Salem Pirates of the Carolinas League. He is leading the team in several offensive categories and is flirting with the top 10 hitters in the league.

Hargis has played in 127 games, most for the team, has 461 at bats, also tops, with 65 runs, second, 125 hits, first, 25 doubles, first, one triple, two homers and 51 rbis. He's also the team leader in stolen bases with 15. He has made 43 errors.

Our correspondent in Salem said the Pittsburgh front office has already told him Hargis will definitely move up to Double A ball next year.

Former Lompoc High and Allan Hancock runner Steve Galbraith finished 12th in a field of 101 in the recent National 15 Kilometer Championships, held in the mile high altitude of Littleton, Colo.

Galbraith's time was 52:07. Rick Rojas of Mexico won the event with a time of 45:50.4 and Olympian Frank Shorter was second with 46:44.

Galbraith will be running for Southern Colorado University this year.

Roy Thomas picked up his third straight win as a member of the Reading Phillies Thursday night going 7 1-3 innings as Reading beat the Pittsfield Rangers and David Clyde 5-3.

Thomas' record with Reading is now 5-2, with an earned run average of 2.40 going into last night's game and two complete games. According to the Reading ballclub, he has pitched better each time out. He still is having some trouble keeping the ball down but when he's been right he's usually won.

Reading is currently one game behind the Bristol Red Sox for the league lead with 11 games to play so Thomas could be the stimulus needed to give them the flag.

Cubs finally score runs, beat LA 7-0

CHICAGO (UPI) — For two days Jim Marshall complained because his Chicago Cubs scored only one run per game and lost by two runs and then by one run to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

On the third day the Cubs needed only the one run. Instead they got seven and Rick and Paul Reuschel combined to shut out the Dodgers 7-0 on six hits.

"It sure made it a lot more comfortable on the bench," Marshall said. The win broke a two-game losing streak for the Cubs and handed the Dodgers only their third loss in the last 12 games.

It was the first time that older brother Paul ever relieved his kid brother, Rick. Rick gave up five hits in 6 1-3 innings before he had to leave the game with a blister on the forefinger of his pitching hand and Paul allowed only one hit in 2-3 innings.

"I think it's the humidity that causes the blister," Rick said. "The last couple of innings it was getting sore and I was not throwing the ball where I wanted to. I don't think it's the heat. Maybe my fingers get wet and the friction with the ball causes it."

The blistered finger has plagued Reuschel most of his major league career. But sometimes he can go five or six games with no problem.

Paul, with the Cubs only part of the season, said it's not a family problem. "I don't get any blisters," he said, "but I don't pitch as much as Rick. I felt strong and I'd like to pitch more."

Rick Monday provided the big blow of the Cubs' eight-hit attack, his 16th homer with Don Kessinger on base in a three-run second inning. Kessinger had two hits and scored three runs and the league-leading hitter, Bill Madlock, went two for three, batting in one run, to lift his average to .363.

Andy Messersmith started for the Dodgers and was knocked out in the Cubs' two-run seventh inning with his 12th loss against 14 wins. It was his eighth defeat in his last 10 decisions.

The only bright spot for the Dodgers, who didn't get a runner to third base, was Davey Lopes. He stole second in the sixth inning to extend his major league record to 34 consecutive thefts.

Chargers impress in 20-7 win

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Tommy Prothro may still not know who his starting quarterback will be on opening day but how nice it is to consider the possibilities.

The San Diego Chargers' head coach shuttled a pair of quarterbacks in Thursday night's preseason clash with the San Francisco 49ers and was rewarded with a 20-7 win—the first for the Chargers in three exhibition games.

Dan Fouts and Neal Jeffrey each threw a touchdown strike and Ray Werschling added field goals of 37 and 21 yards in the game before only 18,764 fans. The loss left the 49ers' pre-season record at 1-2.

"We had plenty of chances to move the ball but a fumble by Norm Snead blew a good scoring chance for us," said San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan.

Nolan praised rookie Kermit Johnson, a former UCLA star who played took one kickoff and dashed 86 yards.

For San Diego, Jeffrey completed 6-of-11 passes for 129 yards while Fouts hit 7-of-17 for 124 yards.

The Chargers compiled a total offense of 326 yards, compared with San Francisco's 307. The winner's leading rusher was San Diego's Don Woods, 1974 NFL AFC Rookie of the Year, who carried nine times for 38 yards.

San Francisco running back Larry Schreiber, who took a 28-yard pass from Snead in the second period for the team's only touchdown, carried 16 times for 103 yards.

Fouts' scoring pass was eight-yard toss to Pat Curran in the second quarter.

More swim marks; Furniss beats Shaw

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Bruce Furniss of the Long Beach (Calif.) Swim Club admitted his arms tired in the final lap Thursday night, but he still broke his own world record in the 200-meter freestyle at the National AAU Long Course Swimming Championships.

The 18-year-old from Santa Ana, Calif., fought off teammate Tim Shaw to win the event in 1:50.322.

"In the fourth lap, my forearms were a little bit tired and I just went to my legs," said Furniss, who also admitted he feared Shaw's kick.

"Tim can bring it home so good I just tried to get out in front of him and bring it home as fast as he does."

The 17-year-old Shaw, who set a world record Wednesday in the 400-meter freestyle, finished second to Furniss in the 200-meter race, drawing a 1:52.057 clocking.

Furniss' old record of 1:50.89 was set June 18 in Long Beach. Behind Furniss and Shaw were Jim Montgomery of the Badger Dolphins and John

Gaters beat Triangles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Betty Stove and Frew McMillan, needing a 6-1 victory to win the match for the Golden Gaters, downed Kim Warwick and Peggy Michel by that score to pull out a 26-25 victory over the Pittsburgh Triangles Thursday night in the first match of the World Team Tennis finals.

The dramatic mixed doubles confrontation was set up by Miss Stove's 6-3 loss to Evonne Goolagong Cawley in women's singles to give the favored Triangles a seemingly insurmountable 24-20 lead.

Provenzo had nine strikeouts and two walks and was only in trouble once.

That put runners on first and third but Morris was put out trying to steal second. Two more outs came on a pop-up to second and a ground out.

No-hitter in Babe Ruth

SEATTLE (UPI) — Kirkland's Tony Provenzo pitched the third no-hitter of the national 16-to-18-year-old Babe Ruth championships, defeating Seattle, 1-0, in the meeting of the tourney's last two undefeated teams.

But even the losing pitcher had a good showing as he set a new tournament record.

Losing pitcher Eric Wilkins set a new tournament record with 34 strikeouts for the tourney, including 11 Thursday night.

Drought-plagued farmer mourns financial ability

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Bib-overlaid Ronald Loutsch, a drought-plagued farmer from northwest Iowa, mopped his brow with a red bandana beneath the boiling Midwest sun and longingly eyed a new bright green tractor he can't afford to buy.

Loutsch, spitting a brown wad of chewing tobacco upon the trampled ground at the Iowa State Fair, said his corn crop has been nearly wiped out by hot, dry weather the past two years.

His "newest" tractor is 11 years old and Loutsch, the father of 14 children ranging from 2 to 21, knows it will be at least another year before he can afford a new one.

"That's my goal — if I got enough money — to buy one like that," said Loutsch, showing his tobacco pouch into his hip pocket and pointing a calloused finger toward a huge $30,000 tractor in the sprawling farm implement display.

"I've been looking at these tractors, but I'm not thinking of buying," he said. "I ain't got the funds. Golly, it didn't rain from the 20th of June until Aug. 10.

"Corn-wise, I would say I'll have about a 90 per cent loss this year. I'll cut it for silage — that's the only way I can salvage it. Last year, I got nine bushels to the acre on my corn."

Despite his troubles, Loutsch said he wouldn't trade farm life for anything. He should know — he's been farming for 23 years. "Farming ain't so bad, it's the weather that kills you," he said. "But if there's a will, we'll make it. Farming is a good rural life and a good way to raise your children and they like it, too."

Loutsch, a sweat-stained green cap atop his balding head and a spare-tire belly straining his pin-stripe overalls, doesn't travel to the fair to play the nickel-and-dime games of chance on the midway in hopes of winning a cuddly teddy bear. His gambling is big time — thousands of dollars each year on crops that may wither in the sun.

The 44-year-old 4-H leader and his son, Tony, 18, brought 14 Suffolk show lambs to the fair.

"Coming to the fair is a few days of our vacation, but actually it's more work than fun," he said.

Loutsch isn't the only drought-stricken Iowa farmer who hopes next year will mean more corn in the bin so a new tractor can roll through the fields.

Don Findley of Lovilia in south central Iowa said he had planned to buy a new tractor this fall. But then the rains stopped.

"I wanted to buy a new tractor, but then it got dry," Findley said, adjusting his bright red cap. "These guys talk about 25 or 30 per cent of the crop being lost, but I think it's more like 35 or 40 per cent."

But, like Loutsch, the 48-year-old Findley is used to the ups and downs of country living. "Farming is a wonderful way of life. You can't beat it," Findley said. "You can't make a lot of money farming, but it's the best kind of life."

Caltrans upper-level workers exempt from cut

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Management and upper-level professional employees will be exempted from the first stage of employee cutbacks in the state Department of Transportation, it was reported today.

Only those employees of the "associate" level or lower will be affected, according to the Sacramento Union. The plan is opposed strongly by the California State Employees Association.

"If they wanted an across-the-board reduction they could have sliced the pyramid," a CSEA spokesman said. "Instead, they cut only the bottom part of the pyramid."

The department earlier announced it would cut back 3,300 persons through attrition and layoffs by the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1976 because highway construction money was drying up.

Now the department says 1,614 workers will be removed from the payroll by Jan. 1, 1976 in the first phase of the reduction.

The department has also announced it will not put up for bid contracts for new road construction this fiscal year.

Employee cutbacks will be done through the seniority system, with those low on the lists the first to go.

Officials claim price jumps not long-term trend

United Press International Government officials were surprised at the sharp rise of inflation last month, but they contend the July Consumer Price Index figures do not represent a long term trend.

However, the figures do bring into question the extent of recovery from the country's worst post-World War II recession, specifically whether further increases in the price of bread and gasoline will blunt the fledgling economic upturn.

Consumer prices in July rose a whopping 1.2 per cent — equal to an annual rate of 14.4 per cent — after a 0.8 increase in June. The CPI in the first five months of this year increased only 0.5 per cent.

In July, it cost $16.23 to buy what cost $10 eight years ago, according to the figures released Thursday.

But government economists point to special factors causing July's price increase: the Independence Day gasoline price increase, the anticipated sale of grain to Russia and wholesale price rises for aluminum and steel.

And one reason for optimism, they say, is that the end of recession means there is some slack in the economy — factory idleness, a large pool of unemployed and relatively low demand — which tends to work against rising prices.

The signs of recovery, as expressed in the 1.6 per cent rise in the Gross National Product for the second quarter, point to an increase in employment.

Economists generally believe the CPI will stabilize in coming months, though a wheat price increase, for instance, could affect a wide range of products from birthday cakes to meat loaves and the end of domestic oil controls could raise gasoline from three to seven cents a gallon.

Hiker faces grizzly bear

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — A Frenchman on a hiking trip heard a companion's warning and turned to face a charging seven-foot grizzly bear.

"I immediately dropped my pack, and jumped up the nearest tree," Jean-Guillaume Christian said Thursday. "I was about two or three meters off the ground when she grabbed my left leg. She pulled me down to the ground and started bearhugging me."

The bear took a swipe at Christian with its huge paw, knocking him to the ground. Then the 24-year-old medical student remembered something the rangers had told him to do if he ran into any bear trouble.

"Christian said he remembered that rangers had told them to play dead if they were mauled by a bear," park spokesman Joe Carder said. "He's sure it saved his life."

The bear sniffed around for awhile, decided Christian wasn't worth any more time and lumbered off.

The Frenchman, speaking through a translator from his hospital bed, said he was in pretty good shape for someone who had been mauled by a grizzly and hiked seven miles to medical care.

Treasury Department economist Sidney Jones said while inflation remains "a very serious problem," the trend will be reversed soon.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen said the CPI was "somewhat higher than anticipated," but he said, "the early evidence is that the CPI will drop back when the August figures come out next month."

Brown gets bill on picketing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has sent Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. a bill repealing the so-called Simpson law which outlaws picketing in the Capitol.

The measure (AB1967) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, was given final legislative approval Thursday on a bare majority 21-15 vote.

The bill repeals a law designed to prevent Robert H. Simpson, a 95-year-old political protester who makes daily rounds through legislative halls, from picketing in the Capitol.

Simpson, who displays signs with salty expletives rapping state officials, including Brown, has been arrested more than 300 times, by his own count, since the law was enacted in 1969.

Opponents of the Sieroty bill said the picketing ban was needed to keep order in the Capitol and prevent unruly demonstrations.

Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, told the Senate that allowing large numbers of protesters to carry picket signs in the Capitol would be "putting powder and fire together. And don't be surprised if it blows up in our faces."

Farm labor jobless insurance

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation providing state unemployment insurance coverage for an estimated 250,000 California farm workers has won passage from the Senate.

The bill (AB118) by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, was approved Thursday on a 23-7 vote with little discussion and was returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments.

The measure is supported by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who, in his inaugural address, made such coverage a high priority for enactment this year. Similar measures were vetoed three times by former Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Currently, farm workers are covered by a special federal unemployment assistance program which will expire next July. The Fenton measure would continue the benefits from then on.

The bill would cost California farmers an extra $41 million a year. In addition, the program would cost the bankruptcy-threatened state unemployment insurance fund another $48 million.

Auto layoffs set to drop

DETROIT (UPI) — Long-term layoffs will drop below 90,000 by the end of next week as U.S. automakers step up production of the 1976 models they are counting on to pull the industry out of a 23-month slump.

With only 89,560 workers off the job at the end of August, the unemployment rolls will be the shortest since before Christmas, when massive layoffs began in reaction to nearly empty auto showrooms. By late March, more than 40 per cent of the industry's 700,000 blue-collar workers were off the job.

All but 16 of the 57 U.S. car and truck assembly plants will be turning out the new models as September begins. Observers predict indefinite layoffs, which peaked at 212,000 in March, will be below 90,000 by mid September.

The trade publication Automotive News estimated car production this week climbed 20 per cent from last week with the startup of new models at 12 General Motors plants, though the year's output — just shy of 4 million cars — still trails last year's sluggish pace by 15 per cent.

DOING WHAT COMES NATURALLY it may be for most people, but walking is quite a feat for young Anthony Johnson of Newton, N.C. Anthony was born with severely twisted legs which were amputated when he was 18 months old to save him from a life in a wheelchair. Later fitted with artificial legs, he learned to walk step by hesitant step with the love and determined assistance of his parents. Now on his second set of legs, Anthony, Newton's March of Dimes poster child, rides a tricycle, runs and plays like any other four-year-old.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The oldest expert was holding forth. He remarked, "I always shudder when a really bad player is defending against me. His plays are so random that I can't draw real inferences. Give me the predictable man with a little knowledge and he will belong to me."

Today's hand illustrates this. East was a good, steady, unimaginative player.

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds and led a trump to his 10. West took the ace and played a second diamond.

South ruffed and led a trump to dummy. East discarded a small heart. At this point South knew that predictable East

Ask the Jacobys

A reader from Georgia asks what you should lead with:

♠ 8 2 ♣ 9 5 3 ♦ J 10 8 3 2 ♠ Q J 6

Your partner dealt and bid one spade. It was overcalled with one notrump, you passed, there was a raise to two notrump, and a final bid of three notrump.

There is a temptation to lead diamonds, but we resist the temptation and open the eight of spades. Maybe our club stopper will give us time to get our partner's spades off and running.

Investigations

Political killings in the United States during the last decade or so have all been "solved" to the satisfaction of those law enforcement agencies to whom that task fell. Unfortunately, none of those killings have been solved to the satisfaction of a growing number of American people who feel there is more to the story than has been publicized.

Since the 1963 assassination of President Kennedy, several authors have written books analyzing the Warren Commission's findings and the apparent inconsistencies therein, at the same time posing some unanswered questions about that event.

Robert Kennedy's murder in Los Angeles is now scheduled to be re-examined in the not-too-distant future due to an effort on the part of persons who feel Sirhan and his pistol were not alone.

Nothing much as been happening relative to Martin Luther King's killing lately, although James Earl Ray has consistently maintained his innocence, and some of the facts in the case would tend to support at least his not operating alone, if not his innocence.

Finally, the lone survivor of an attempted political assassination, Alabama Governor George Wallace, isn't satisfied with the findings and outcome of his case either.

While all the other victims are dead, Wallace is very much alive and is convinced Arthur Bremer did not have the financial wherewithall to track him down on the presidential campaign trail and to fire the near-fatal shot that put the governor in a wheel chair.

"I believe that a man who had never made any money in his life could not follow me all over the country and buy guns and automobiles, and stay in the Waldorf Astoria," the governor is quoted as saying. To further confuse the issue, E. Howard Hunt of Watergate fame, has been tied to Bremer's apartment shortly after the abortive assassination attempt.

We have no idea why investigative agencies of the government and various cities across the United States might do less than a satisfactory job in putting together assassination cases. Perhaps, as many directly concerned parties have maintained, the evidence pointing to a grand conspiracy in these cases in purely circumstantial. On the other hand, as others have suggested, those same investigators may well be part of the conspiracy as well.

In any event, and paranoia aside, if Governor Wallace is successful in having his case re-opened and enough new evidence is brought to light as a result, perhaps the way will then be open for other re-investigations of other assassinations and America's assassinated leaders can finally be laid to rest.

Valuable aid

My columnist friend over in Santa Paula, Bob Vincent, takes note of the fact that school is opening soon for another year. As a public service, Vincent offers some very vital information to parents who will want to know how their pride and joy is progressing in the classroom.

There are two ways of determining this: the report card and the parent-teacher conference. Since few can understand current report cards, the burden falls on the conference.

Vincent states that such conferences are invariably initiated by the teacher who tries to bare the truth about Johnnie or Jane as painlessly as possible. Unfortunately, such pain-killing methods frequently result in a failure in communications. Vincent, then, offers the following interpretive glossary designed to remove the communication barrier that might otherwise render the parent-teacher conference inoperable.

The first statements that follow are likely to be what the teacher will report. The statements in parenthesis is the interpretation: "Milburn tends to resist group orientation and his behavior during supervised play with his peers is inconsistent with democratic principles."

(Milburn is a belligerent whelp and during recess he slugged another kid). "Beauregard adjusts well to his peer group but he seems to be lacking in reading readiness. I foresee serious problems with phonics."

(Your kid picks up a book, sometimes voluntarily, and will try to make out the text almost as soon as he looks at the pictures).

"Sharon is an academically talented child and an enrichment program is indicated. She has a phenomenal span of attention."

(You can expect Sharon to have extra homework, and she may even wind up tagged a gifted child).

"Phyllis exhibits a resentment of obligations which would appear to stem from environmental influences."

(Phyllis won't put her books away at school any better than she picks up her clothes at home).

"Boris offers a paradox in that he seems unable to relate to current events or the world around him."

(Boris can spout at the drop of a hat from such facts as Bill Sudakis' batting average and Raquel Welch's vital statistics, but when he was asked who is the President, he replied, "Of What?").

"Helmut has demonstrated superior skill in communication but needs counseling in human relationships."

(Your boy is one kid who can recite in class without stammering, but if two

Legislators tax woes

It is not likely that many citizens will weep for legislators now facing the peril of having to pony up some back taxes in connection with the $30 a day living expenses which they have been blithely collecting seven days a week in recent years.

The possibility came with notification of recent decisions in other states which made such allowances taxable. The allotments were originally made to help defray living costs of the solons while away from their homes attending the sessions. It was started in the days when legislators were paid only $100 a month. Sessions then were held only about six months every two years.

With the advent of the year around sessions many of the lawmakers have moved their families into residence in the capital city and given up outside business activities. According to IRS this puts them into the position of residing where they earn most of their income and makes the expense allowances taxable income.

Highly incensed at this turn of events, the solons are banding together to hire lawyers to do battle with IRS.

While this column has in the past been severely critical of these payments, especially for days when the legislature is not in session, one expects fairness in taxation by IRS.

If, as reports for demands of accountability for expenses for the past two years indicate, the IRS is seeking to retroactively collect back taxes on these payments it would seem it is unfairly putting the legislators' backs to the wall.

For the lawmakers have been previously given rulings by IRS that the allowances were not subject to taxation and therefore they have not kept the records now being demanded. It falls into the realm of ex post facto application of the law.

Not that the continued collection of unwarranted expenses is to be condoned. No one else in public or private employment is permitted non-taxable living expenses excepting when away from their principle place of work and residence.

It is said that the new city tax rate will cost a $30,000 home owner about $1 a month. That's not "nickel and diming" one to death, that's "dollarling."

THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING

On the right by William Buckley

Pity Mrs. Ford

One hates to respond, or even to comment, on casual effluvia of spouses of important people, but what, really, is the alternative other than to take it lying down, a posture recommended by Mrs. Ford for young unmarried American women? Mrs. Ford's interview (on CBS 60 minutes) was in fact an act of aggression.

What she did was to use her high office as First Lady, achieved by a concatenation of romantic and felonious coincidences, to rewrite the operative sexual code of western civilization. It is bad enough to hear the same kind of thing from Margaret Mead, returned from a winter in Samoa and overwhelmed by the spontaneity of it all.

But the role of the civic leader is to defend standards, even if the barbarians are at the gate; which they most definitely are. Her husband's policies of detente with the Soviet Union may, by some, be excused as a necessary capitulation to overwhelming force. But Hugh Hefner of Playboy Magazine does not dispose of hydrogen bombs, leaving Mrs. Ford without a practical reason for insouciantly undermining the traditional presumption in favor of chastity, and fidelity.

What she did not say was that if her daughter Susan had an affair, she would understand and forgive her. What she said was that she would not be "surprised;" that, in effect, she would approve, subject — here was a strange qualification — to an investigation of the boy-lover who took Susan to his bed. "I'd want to know pretty much about the young man that she was planning to have the affair with — whether it was a worthwhile encounter or whether it was going to be one of those..."

One of those what? What qualifications would Mrs. Ford look for, in a suitor who aspired to be the lover of her 18-year-old daughter? That he be a moderate Republican? Surely not — that would be politically straight-laced. That he be a WASP? That too would be atavistic — HEW would not approve of any such discrimination, nor would the 14th Amendment, or the Supreme Court. That the young man should be genuinely attached to 18-year-old Susan? I cannot imagine whom that would exclude, Susan being attractive and nubile, and all young men of her age who are not members of the Gay Liberation Front being normally attracted to that which a pretty 18-year-old has to give. That he be rich? Or — at the opposite extreme — poor? But surely Susan is the exclusive arbiter of those qualities in any courtship? One concludes — happily, in this case — that Mrs. Ford really hasn't thought the matter through, and one is left ignorant of whether she is capable of thinking the matter through.

President Ford, who was suddenly cast into the role of poor John Mitchell a few years ago, authorized a spokesman to say limply that he had always encouraged his wife to "speak her mind."

Well, clearly the Republican platform of 1976 should commit the president to discouraging his wife from speaking her mind. It is a rationalist and psychological superstition that it is always a good thing to speak your mind. It is nothing of the sort.

It makes no difference that some people harbor prejudice against blacks — they should suppress this bias — any more than it makes any difference at all that it is an acknowledged fact that all of us are sinners and that sexual permissiveness is in vogue. Hypocrisy, La Rochefoucauld said, is the tribute that vice pays to virtue.

Mrs. Ford reminds one, sadly, of the long reach of the behaviorists and situational ethics people. The commonplace that they infect primarily only themselves and immature students is long since exploded.

It is not even surprising that Mrs. Ford should think as she does. It is very surprising, and very bad news, that she abused her husband's position by speaking out on the subject in contravention of ethical values established, according to her husband who not infrequently invokes His assistance, by an authority higher even than the Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's troubles in the Mideast and Moscow may pale into insignificance in comparison with the confrontations he may face at home in the State Department this coming year.

The reason: John Hemenway has just been elected president of the American Foreign Service Association, State's 7,400 member trade union whose rolls include most senior and junior foreign service officers. To my knowledge, this is the first time this staid body has elected a gadfly. Most AFSA presidents have been "proper" men who conform to the State Department's hierarchy.

Because charges of fraud had been made after the 1973 AFSA elections, the Department of Labor supervised the voting.

Hemenway was fired by the State Department in 1969 after making charges of malfeasance in the agency. Powerful senators, including William Proxmire (D-Wisc.) and Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), intervened in his behalf.

Following stormy sessions, the Grievance Hearing Committee sitting in his case recommended that he be reinstated, promoted, his legal fees paid, that he receive an apology, that letters of retraction be sent those who had been officially misinformed about him and that his record be expunged of untruthful and derogatory material. Except for the letter of apology and the payment of Hemenway's legal fees, the Department ignored all recommendations of its own grievance board.

Hemenway then moved to the Pentagon. Again he was fired, this time after insisting on his right to testify against Kissinger, Elliot Richardson and other high-level officials.

Hemenway over the years has repeatedly testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He has called Kissinger unfit to hold office, challenging his professional judgment, his administrative ability, his selection of officials and his foreign policy.

In other testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he has charged that high level foreign service assignments have been used as pay-offs, that there is an almost incredible state of corruption, maladministration and wheeling and dealing in State personnel operations. He has charged that foreign service officers have been promoted or entered laterally in direct violation of regulations. He has claimed that at least one officer was promoted without felony charges against him being investigated.

Hemenway did all this as a private citizen, not as a union official. As head of the AFSA union, you can expect Hemenway to regularly challenge new ambassadorial and other Presidential level appointments in the foreign service, as well as lower level promotions, and refusals to promote. You can expect him to urge Congress to create a tough new grievance system for the Department of State, the Agency for International Development and the U.S. Information Agency. The present system recently went down the drain when all seven of the highly-qualified public members of the foreign service grievance board resigned in protest.

Hemenway will be hitting Kissinger in his soft underbelly, for the secretary has never taken to administration or personnel problems. He has, in the last number of years, been extremely suspicious of any person who disagreed with him or opposed his policies. He is noted as a loner, who relies on his own analyses. As a rule, he pays little attention to the advice of subordinates. He is, as a matter of fact, extremely poor at picking assistants and worse at handling them.

It may be that Kissinger, sensitive to the point of agony, may not be able to stand up to Hemenway's attacks for more than a year or so.
